

ABSTRACT

Child development educational displays are disclosed. The educational apparatus disclosed herein may be mobile and may include one or more three dimensional interactive educational aides demonstrating an aspect of child development to a user. An educational apparatus may be located within the trailer of a truck, or may be located within a tent, or other moveable, structure. The structure may have two or more areas wherein each area contains materials which teach a user about one of a plurality of stages of baby or childhood development.